DETAILED ACTION

1. This is the First Office Action on the Merits from the examiner in charge of this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 3-4, 6-12, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by USP 3,629,960 to Roush.

Roush discloses an apparatus for providing privacy for an individual at a workspace, comprising, such as shown in Fig 1, a front panel 10; a first side panel 12 coupled to a first portion of the front panel; and a second side panel 14 coupled to a second portion of the front panel, the panels having a first configuration wherein the panels may stand on a surface of the workspace to provide the privacy and a second configuration wherein the panels may be folded along the first portion of the front panel and the second portion of the front panel, the second configuration comprises a stack of the panels, one or more laminas over one or more of the panels, an indicator coupled to one or more of the panels, the indicator having a plurality of configurations, one configuration of the indicator indicates that the individual is working on an assignment and another configuration of the indicator indicates that the individual has completed the assignment, the indicator comprises a rotatable member, means for retaining a writing instrument, the retaining means being coupled to one or more of the panels, means for displaying marking, the displaying means being coupled to one or more of the panels, the marking comprises one or more of a name and goals for the individual, the panels have a thematic silhouette in at least the first configuration, means for retaining an award earned by the individual, the retaining means being coupled to one or more of the panels.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by USP 3,538,976 to Gilbert.

Gilbert discloses an apparatus for providing privacy for an individual at a workspace, comprising, such as shown in Fig 1, a front panel 10; a first side panel 12 coupled to a first portion of the front panel; and a second side panel 14 coupled to a second portion of the front panel, the panels having a first configuration wherein the panels may stand on a surface of the workspace to provide the privacy and a second configuration wherein the panels may be folded along the first portion of the front panel and the second portion of the front panel, wherein the first configuration comprises a concave arrangement of the panels wherein each panel has a bottom portion resting on the surface of the workspace, the second configuration comprises a stack of the panels, one or more laminas over one or more of the panels.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

7. Claims 13, 15, 17-18, and 20-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roush.

Roush discloses all the elements as discussed above except for the thematic silhouette comprises a castle-like silhouette, and the method steps recited in said claims.

However, since Roush already teaches the idea of providing thematic silhouette to the apparatus, it would have been obvious and well within the level of one skill in the art to modify the structure of Roush by having the thematic silhouette comprising a castle-like silhouette. Further, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice for aesthetic purpose to use various thematic silhouette. In regard to the method claims, since Roush, as modified, discloses all the elements recited in said claims, it would have been well within the level of one skill in the art to perform the method steps recited therein.

8. Claims 15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gilbert.

Art Unit: 3637

Gilbert discloses all the elements as discussed above except for the method steps recited in said claims. However, since Gilbert discloses all the elements recited in said claims, it would have been well within the level of one skill in the art to perform the method steps recited therein.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kelley et al, Albrecht et al, Huff, Sutton, Safranek, Stephens, Grant, and Tanaka all show structures similar to various elements of applicant's disclosure.
